

Correspondence regarding Lost Creek Beach

I have a couple of questions about that little patch of beach that Mr. Roman designated for the Romans Point road residents. That is NOT a public beach as we understand from when the kayak people tried to take it over. They were chased out of there by the town because it is NOT a public beach.

We have a home on Mountain Ash Rd and went to use that little piece of beach today and first off there was nowhere to park. The cars were parked down by the beach in the no parking area and all the way to the road. There was a motorhome from California parked right near the beach entrance! We had to back all the way out because there was nowhere to turn around. No emergency vehicles would have been able to get in and out of there.

The people were so thick there at the entrance that we couldn't even get to the water. I kid you not. This has gotten way out of control.

Can't we get some No Beach Access signs at the beginning of Romans Point road and at the Caution Dead End sign at the beginning of the 3 creeks entrance. We're very concerned about this situation. The public beach is in Cornucopia not at Romans Point. We would appreciate anything that can be done to help deter these tourists away. They were all MN cars and California. I don't know who's telling people they can go there but we wish they would knock it off.

I think some Private Beach signs should be posted down there by someone. Imagine how the people who live down there feel.

Thanks for listening and have a great day!

Follow-up remarks:

Needless to say, that little piece of beach isn't big enough to hold more than 4 people so they all cross over onto the private beach owned by the people on Blueberry lane so they are all trespassing to say the least.

There is a sign on the beach in Corny that says where the private beach begins and the public beach ends. I think there needs to be a sign over on this end across the eddy saying that it is private land. It might deter some. Some will ignore it and don't care. And these people would not move so we can get through to the water. They just looked at us like we were the intruders. That made me angry. It's pretty sad for us locals when we have to drive to town just to go swimming. When we go down there again to go swimming, we'll just barge our way through and if they say anything to us, I'll firmly tell them we are locals and if they want more beach area they can pack up and go to Corny.

The parking should definitely be addressed before the residents down there need a fire truck or ambulance and it can't get to them because the damn tourists have the road blocked.
